Hilma’s Ghost, a feminist artist collective founded by Brooklyn artists Dannielle Tegeder and Sharmistha Ray in 2020, debuted their spiritually inspired work, which channels the great Hilma af Klint, at last year’s Armory Show in New York. Now, the duo has curated a group show, “Cosmic Geometries” (through February 26), featuring abstract and geometric works with a transcendental bent. Sarah Potter, a curator, tarot card reader, and witch who helped them divine how to hang the show, is holding a tarot reading workshop about how to use the deck the duo created featuring the paintings from their “Abstract Futures Tarot” series. The virtual workshop is BYOT—bring your own tarot, with limited copies for sale in person at the EFA Project Space.
